

THE MAYSVILLE DAILY TRIBUNE

IS COMETOCK NAPPING?
Kansas City Journal.—Is Anthony Comstock prepared to passively observe the Cherokee strip at high noon in the presence of thousands of spectators?

IT'S STILL THERE.
New York Press.—Cleveland organs hail with great joy the signs of revival property. And the "culminating atrocity of class legislation" is still in effect.

REPUBLICAN PROSLIVITIES.
New York Press.—Business shows signs of reviving because there is a hope that the Democratic party may finally carry out the demands of the Minneapolis platform.

BUT IT DOESN'T STOP.
Tapeka State Journal.—The attention of the distinguished members of the United States Senate is called to the fact that the great and patient public is holding a stop watch on them.

HARD ON THE COLTS.
Chicago Tribune.—The Louisville and Washington Baseball Clubs obstinately persist in remaining at the bottom of the list. This is what makes it such hard to bag for Captain Anson.

A BULFOPOL OF MUSCOVY.
Philadelphia Record.—It's hard to believe that a woman with such a name as Koriboot Dase-Kavitch can be a night-gale of the lyric state, but that's what they call her in Russia, where she hails from.

HE WILL DO IT, TOO.
Philadelphia Inquirer.—Governor McKinley says that the way to restore confidence is to turn out the Democratic party. He proposes to do his part by carrying Ohio to the tune of 30,000. Pennsylvania ought to roll up three times that figure.

WE WILL DEFLICATE IT THIS YEAR.
Boston Journal.—Governor McKinley has begun his campaign in Ohio, addressing an audience of 5,000 people at South Salem—the largest gathering ever known in the country. There are already indications of another such wave of enthusiasm in Ohio as characterized the victorious cautions of 1888.

A BEAUTIFUL TRUTH.
Boston Globe.—Once in a while a newspaper writer's pen will tell a truth so manifest, so striking, so apropos, so admirably put, that the reader involuntarily pauses a moment to gaze at it in rapt admiration. For instance, Marshall Oakes's Capital says this week: "Now is the very time to advertise."

EX-SPEAKER REED ON THE SITUATION.
Ex-Speaker Reed in North American Review.—It is a very unfortunate thing that the Democratic party, in its experience of responsibilities, should continue its custom, born of thirty years of exile, of charging all the things which happen to the Republican party. It would seem as if the people could do nothing to fix responsibilities. Not even a three-to-one majority in the House can confer upon three parties any freedom from the idea that all things that are done are still done by the Republicans. Even the visible presence of 142 majority, a majority almost twice as large as the whole Republican force, has not prevented the New England Democrat from charging the non-repeal of the act, called the Sherman Act, to his party enemies in the House. They do this even at the time when the commonest dictates of good sense demand that they should declare with a little decency toward opponents whose help they are asking. It is most unfortunate that the difficulties of this country should be made more afflictive by attempts to make party capital, when the real wealth of the country is in jeopardy. If the Sherman Act has not proved a remedy for the situation of 1890, or rather, having been the solution of the impending questions of that perplexing time, has ceased to be for the good of the country, why not examine it in the light of the conditions and try to find out what ought to be done? Why spend time in being extra wise after an event, when the real situation is of being moderately wise at the present time?

THE ICE IN THE PUNCH.

The wall of the 'cello is soft, sweet and low. There are strains of romance in the thrum. The violin's note—it floats in your ear. And the harp makes one fancy that angels are near.

The voice of a young girl can reach to the song of the barton—well, it is art. The flute and the violin in the ravens'—the harp in soft serenade—how entrancing they are! But to all the strains of the cello and the clank and the crunch.

So here's to the recipe, ancient in Spain. And here's to the basket of cowbush chum. Again to the genius who grows the sharp. But ten times to King Wind who furnishes ice.

For to all the mad millions Who dance at cotillions There's naught like the clink and the clank and the crunch.

Of the ice in the punch.

THE City Loses One of Her Best Citizens in the Death of Professor William—Funeral Arrangements.

Professor Josiah Wilson, the veteran school teacher, died at his home on East Second street at 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon of brain disease and nervous prostration.

The announcement of Mr. Wilson's death was received with reluctance all over the city and a deep regret.

He had been in failing health for six months, but had been confined to his room only twelve days, the last four of which he was unconscious and oblivious to the surroundings and unable to receive any nourishment.

His death was not a surprise to his family and intimate friends, who were conscious of his rapidly sinking condition and knew that it was only a question of a brief time until they would be separated from a kind husband and father and true friend.

Mr. Wilson was born in Fleming county on June 17th, 1838, and consequently was a little over 54 years of age. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Wilson. His father was a native of Virginia, and his mother, whose maiden name was Miss Elizabeth Peed, was a native of Fleming county, this state. His father was a shoemaker by trade, and for more than twenty years kept the first tannery on the Fleming place. His parents are both dead.

Professor Wilson was educated in Band & Nicholson's Seminary of this city, and for thirty-five long years taught school. Of this remarkably long career as a teacher thirty years he spent in the public schools of Maysville, the other five he having been employed at Fern Leaf and New Market in the State of Kentucky.

He was a teacher in Kentucky who served the public as long and faithfully as Professor Wilson. The benefit that the deceased has been to mankind and womanhood in the more than a quarter of a century that he occupied the schoolroom is of uncalculable value. To him can be attributed the success in life of many young men, whose faculties were developed and into whose souls was engrained the unambitious spark of ambition which may lead them to distinction, under his careful instruction and timely advice. To-day, we venture the assertion, there is not one who was ever a pupil of his who has not been apprised of his death and who does not deplore his demise sincerely.

He was married to Miss Rebecca S. Cady twenty-nine years ago, who was born in Providence, R. I. To the union was born seven children, four daughters and three sons, all of whom are living except one son, but one married, James, residing in the city.

March 5th, 1862, Mr. Wilson was initiated into Ringgold Lodge No. 27, I. O. O. F., in which order he was always an earnest worker. On July 7th, 1886, he was elected Secretary of the Lodge and served in that capacity until the time of his death, a period of more than twenty-four years.

He was a devout member of the Presbyterian Church, having united with same in 1860 and served as Deacon and Elder for many years.

His life was insured in the Knights of Honor for $500.

The funeral will occur tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at the First Presbyterian church, Rev. John S. Hays conducting the ceremonies. He will be buried under the auspices of Ringgold Lodge No. 27, I. O. O. F., in the Maysville Cemetery.

THE TWENTY-SEVENTH NATIONAL ENCAMPMENT LAST WEEK.

Description of the Beautiful Monument Erected by the Citizens of Indiana to the Memory of the Silent Victims of the War of 1848-1861.

At 6 a.m. on the 4th the writer boarded a train on the C. and O., my destination being Indianapolis. After a pleasant ride down the shores of the beautiful Ohio we entered the Grand Central Depot at 5:30 a.m. A few moments passed on account of a hot box and we pulled out for Indianapolis over the Big Four.

Too much praise cannot be given the management of the C. and O. and Big Four Railroads for the attention paid to their passengers, especially as they were taxed to their utmost capacity on account of the National Encampment and the World's Fair. Having the right of way all trains late reached for us, we arrived at the Hoosier Capital at 12:30. While passing through the arid fields of Indiana I thought of the 280,000 miles from the Sahara Desert with its simoons. The absence of vegetation told of the terrible drought in the lowland.

Upon our arrival we went forth to behold the city struggling with a vast army of veterans, the like of which was never witnessed within her gates. The first thing in order was to proceed to the quarters assigned us, which were at the Hoosier Hotel and the streets. Here we found everything in readiness for occupancy. After adjusting our elaborate toilet, we started out on a tour of sight-seeing.

The first object attracting our attention was Indiana's greatest tribute to her fallen heroes, the Soldiers' Monument. Though not completed, it stands towering over the city a wonderful structure. The total height, including the crowning statue, is 280 feet. It is surrounded at the base by a terrace 110 feet in diameter, the floor being 15 feet above the level of the city.

The monument is built of Indiana limestone. The apex or statue is 25 feet in height, from the sole of the foot to the crown of the head, and it is 8 feet toward the top of the arch held in the extended left hand, a sword, with the point turned down, being in the right. To reach the statue there is a spiral staircase with twenty-nine flights of stairs looking through the stairway the apex seemed to rest among the clouds. Upon reaching the top the sight was thrilling and the scene was one of grandeur. One would imagine being in a center around which the universe revolved. The sun was shining brightly and the light shined to witness the assembling of the mighty host of veterans moving from the starting point at North and Meridian streets. It was a scene seldom witnessed even in war. The firing of artillery a few minutes after 11 a.m. gave notice of the moving of the veterans from the point mentioned above.

For long hours previous to the booming of cannon a living mass of humanity was assembled on the terrace waiting for the grand army who was to be reviewed by 30,000 spectators. During the morning the police were on duty, but in the afternoon they were withdrawn, and the grand parade of the Twenty-seventh National Encampment.

It has often been said of Indiana that she has furnished the tallest men in the war of the rebellion. This is true, but so is it true in the grand army which assembled in her capital. Pennsylvania towers high above the crowd. The State of Illinois, William B. Kane, Company A, Twenty-second Pennsylvania Cavalry, who stands 7 feet and weighs 260 lbs. The tallest man in the army was the line as the giant of Pennsylvania moved by. On the other hand, there was in the parade a little fellow, a child of the Mexican War and the war for the Union.

A brief journey through the Statehouse filled my mind with profound solemnity in viewing the tattered and torn flags, telling in thunder tones of the rapid flight of time. As I stood there, the memory of the men who had committed to the brave and chivalrous young soldiers to defend and hand down to posterity without the loss of a star, in view of the fact that I was collecting the arms of the soldiers who were in the war for the Union.

The most beautiful sight seen in the city was the lighting of the Soldiers' Monument by electricity. It was extensively advertised through the city that it would be lit up. As soon as it was dark the work was over for the day. The streets that radiate from the monument were black with human beings, the people of all ages and all ranks rushing to the Capitol. The police stood no show in the face of a crowd which seemed to be infinite. In a moment the monument was lit up by the glow of

Where is That Banner Now? Greenleaf (Ind.) Review.—During the last campaign the Democrats of this city displayed a banner in their processions. Its inscription: VOTE FOR GROVER CLEVELAND AND GEORGE B. MCNEIL FOR VICE PRES.

A liberal reward will be paid for that banner at this office, and no questions asked.

UNDER Republican rule there was loud complaint of the high prices worked men had to pay for their dinner pails. Under Democratic rule all this is done away. Workingmen have no work and consequently do not have to pay bills.

THE per capita amount of interest paid on the National debt in 1896 was $4.12, the total amount of interest payable then being $138,067,625 per annum. Last year the amount paid per capita of our population was only $2.47.

Under the Republican rule in the United States, the total amount of interest paid having been reduced to $23,378,119 per annum. Thus in less than thirty years there has been a decrease of $3.75 in average annual interest charged to every inhabitant of the United States, and a decrease of almost $110,000,000 in the aggregate charge. The way in which Republican Administrations paid off the National debt under the Protective policy should not be forgotten at this juncture, when Congress is now completing Democratic control, with promises of Free-Trade and the dismantling of all our industries.

HOME-SEEKERS.

Twenty Thousand Boomers Waiting to Be Registered.

A Number of Government Clerks Kept Busy Handing Out Certificates.

The Record for Monday was 1,699—Gives Way to Those Who Men Give Up Their Places to Women—Water Selling at Ten Cents Per Cup.

ARKANSAS CITY, Kan., Sept. 13.—Nine clerks from Washington began Monday registering 30,000 home-seekers who are in this vicinity. During the first hour less than one hundred certificates were issued, but as the clerks became more familiar with their duties they worked more rapidly. The record for the day was 1,699.

At this rate it is impossible for all to register before Saturday, when the strip will be opened, unless the force of clerks is increased. Owing to the fact that the air and the lack of water these people are suffering. Water sells at ten cents a cupful and twenty-five cents for a canteen. The interior department is bitterly condemned for having closed the strip away from the water and shelter.

John R. Cameron, a Kansas City real estate man, who had been waiting for a long time, received the first certificate. Then a lot of women who had not stood in line, but to whom the men had been giving certificates, were registered. Nora Wiley, fourteen years old, got up with the crowd with two cups of coffee, which she gave to the clerks, saying, "I am an orphan, and I want to register for a town lot." The men, displaced at first looked blankly at her, then cheered. The clerk gave her a certificate, which she triumphantly waved aloft.

The last two days have seen a great influx of boomers. Every road leading here has been filled with an unbroken procession of wagons and every train comes in crowded. The crowd at the present exceeds that at the Oklahoma rush. On Saturday and Sunday there was a serious bread famine. It is almost impossible to get anything to eat at the hotels or restaurants. About thirty wheelmen came in from Kansas City and St. Joseph, Monday. The bicycle organization numbers over one hundred men who will make the run.

The county attorney has sent out deputy sheriffs to drive away three-fourths of the crowd, and other farmers who were swindling boomers.

Great Meeting of Business Men in Washington.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—A meeting of representatives of the boards of trade of the United States will be held here Tuesday to influence congress in relieving the nation of the financial stringency, to strengthen the national organization and to establish permanent headquarters. There are in number 1,100 boards of trade in the United States. The national board of trade, which has been in existence for the past 35 years, and meets here annually, is composed of only 50 consulting members and has less than 5 per cent of the total number.

The rooms of the local board of trade, which will be held, will be used as business headquarters.

It is expected that the outcome of this convention will be a new national organization, with permanent headquarters in this city. Board of trade and business men generally consider this matter of national organization a matter of great importance to the sand bodies throughout the country, for then they will have a central office to call upon by letter or telegram for information about the status of pending commercial bills for statistical information, etc. The convention will be in session several days.

BANDITS CAUGHT.

The Mound Train Robbers Under Arrest and One Has Confessed.

OSWEGO, Kan., Sept. 13.—The men who held up and robbed the "Price east-bound train at the Mound Valley Sunday morning have been captured. Their names are George and Charles McNamee, Charles Baker and W. H. Curry. The capture was made at Arkansas City, Kan., where the outlaw had joined the multitude of boomers who swarmed there at the opening of the Cherokee strip. One of the bandits has made a confession and has admitted that he fired the shot which killed Messenger Chapman.

The men belong to the class known as fakirs at racing grounds and county fairs. They are not known to the office of Kansas or the marshals of Indian Territory, and it is not thought that any of them have records as desperadoes or train robbers prior to the affair of Mound Valley. The robbers were brought here Monday. The capture was made by officers of this county, who have been the target of the men since the robbery. A round $500 was offered for the capture of the outlaws, and it will go to the officer who brings them in.

The prisoners do not look like the ordinary type of border men. They were taken to Cherokee and placed in jail here. They had had a safekeeping, as there is considerable talk of lynching should they remain here. After robbing the train the robbers got into the hands of Coffeyville, Kan. There George McNamee, being drunk, met an old chum, Sam Jones, and they went to the strip, and Jones informed Marshall Jackson and a posse overtook and captured them.

The pistol found near the place of robbery is said to belong to Curry. The will not tell where the pistol was found, as there is considerable talk of lynching should they remain here. After robbing the train the robbers got into the hands of Coffeyville, Kan. There George McNamee, being drunk, met an old chum, Sam Jones, and they went to the strip, and Jones informed Marshall Jackson and a posse overtook and captured them.

HE TALKED TOO MUCH. How a Georgia Counterfeiter Gave Him Away.

ELBERTON, Ga., Sept. 12.—The arrest of twenty-three men scattered through Jackson and Elberton counties, charged with wholesale counterfeiting of silver dollars, has stirred up the whole country. Of late months the men have been little town of Clarkesburg, in Jackson county. A man who went to Danville, Va., to see a friend, he had a recollection of his own. The mark was made so significantly that United States Deputy Marshal Elder was first to see it. He had been in the town for four hours he had the whole plot, as well as twenty-three prisoners, in his possession. The plan adopted was to capture the dollars in large quantities, when the counterfeiter would scatter all over the adjoining towns, purchasing five-cent articles and getting back ninety-five cents in silver dollars. Twelve men were arrested in Danielsville, nine in this town and two in Jefferson. Deputy Marshal Elder refuses to talk further than to say that he has found the biggest affair of the kind on record.

BRAZIL'S REVOLT. The Insurgents Are Hemmed In On All Sides.

PERNOS AYRES, Argentina, Sept. 12.—The latest news received here from Rio Janeiro of the revolt against President Peixoto's government confirms the first reports. The bellows squadron, which at first contemplated sailing out of the bay and proceeding down the coast toward Santos, hoping to carry on a sort of guerrilla warfare by way along the water and eventually join with the Rio Grande Do Sul insurgents, changed its plans and still remains sailing before the wind.

The garrison of artillerymen in the forts are loyal to Peixoto, and have come to fire upon the rebels. At the moment they come within range. A strong line of torpedoes has been laid across this entrance, communicating with the forts. The rebels have loaded and ready to help these submarine torpedoes to blow the insurgents out of the water should they attempt to put to sea.
